FRANKLIN SQUARE GROUP ANNOUNCES KEY ADDITION:
RYAN TRIPLETTE
Growing, Innovation-focused Firm Increases
Bipartisan Reach and Strategic Capabilities

Franklin Square Group LLC today announced that Ryan Triplette will join the firm, expanding its bipartisan reach and expertise in the critical area of intellectual property. Triplette adds considerable strength to Franklin Square Group's core service: integrating deep substantive knowledge with political reach and strategy. Franklin Square Group is recognized as one of Washington, D.C.'s leading firms representing clients in the innovation and technology industries.

"Ryan's Republican credentials and experience on the Hill are impeccable," said Josh Ackil, co-founder of Franklin Square Group. "As a growing firm focused on technology clients, we are confident Ryan's experience as Chief IP Counsel in the Senate Judiciary Committee and her technology background at Intel will dovetail perfectly with our current and future clients. We are thrilled to have her join our tight-knit team."

"Ryan represents the best of this generation of Senate Judiciary Committee staffers, said Matt Tanielian, co-founder of Franklin Square Group. "She has been a driving force in every recent intellectual property debate in Congress and has navigated those debates with a powerful balance of policy expertise and political skill. We are looking forward to having her on the Franklin Square team."

"I have had the pleasure of working with the Franklin Square Group over the past several years, both on and off the Hill, and am consistently impressed by their ability to adapt to the constantly changing pulse of the Hill to ensure that their client's needs are met," said Ryan Triplette. "I look forward to joining the Franklin Square team and representing our country's most innovative companies, which are integral to the economic growth of our nation."

Prior to joining the Franklin Square Group, Ryan was Director of Government Relations for the Intel Corporation. During her tenure at Intel, she handled the strategic legislative and political engagement of Republican offices and members in the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives. In this capacity, she served as an advocate on a wide range of issues including: competition policy, cybersecurity, immigration, intellectual property, privacy, tax, telecom, and trade.

Before her time in the private sector, Ryan served on the Senate Judiciary Committee for six years as Counsel and then Chief Intellectual Property Counsel for the Full Committee under the Republican Leadership of Senators Hatch (R-UT) and Specter (PA), respectively. While on the committee, she worked on intellectual property and civil law reform legislation, the Supreme Court nominations of Chief Justice John Roberts, Justice Samuel Alito, and the passage of nearly a dozen bills into law.

Ryan first gained her political stripes working for the Republican National Committee and National Republican Senatorial Committee. These experiences contributed significantly to her in depth knowledge of how to effectively navigate the legislative and political processes.

Triplette is the fifth lobbyist to join the Franklin Square Group's growing team, which includes Josh Ackil, Matt Tanielian, Kara Calvert, and Brian Peters.

Franklin Square Group provides bipartisan, hands-on advocacy and strategic advice in the complex world where the new economy intersects with public policy. The firm has an in-depth understanding of the policy, political and business challenges facing innovative companies and industries. The team has developed an unparalleled network of policy makers on Capital Hill and the Executive Branch, and they are often turned to as experts and trusted advisors on technology and new economy issues.
